

What others say:

"Our watercolor class was great fun and so informative that I believe I could continue to do watercolor paintings for quite a while myself!" Kathy Robinson

" I enjoyed your lesson on painting watercolor poppies. Using more colors and less detail was new to me. I think I might like to try more watercolor painting, and I definitely want to try more flowers. Thank you for your inspiration!" Pat Medina

"I learned more about watercolor technique in the two-hour lesson I took from you last summer than I had from an entire series of watercolor classes previously. You're very generous in sharing your knowledge and your joy in exploring the medium."

Linda Kelch

Learn to Draw and Paint: Your place or mine!

"I teach drawing in an unconventional method. I teach you to use your eyes as your primary tool. I don't work with blocking in shapes, but rather by following a shape with your eyes while pulling the pencil along the paper. I call this The Shape Memory Method.™ It's a very effective way to accurately draw what you see. Learning to draw is the first step in learning to paint. From there I'll walk you through composition, design and general watercolor technique. For the advanced student we explore mixing media (like watercolor and pastel) and working on unconventional surfaces. In most of my classes you can complete a finished project in a half day class." (Katherine McDermott)
